

RED, WHITE & YOU: The Patriot Librarian in Today's Information Environment
AACRL/CUS Workshop, October 24, 2003

Item	Strongly Agree	Agree	Disagree	Strongly Disagree	No Opinion	Composite (29 total responses)
1. The workshop met most of my expectations.	15	12	2			3.45
2. Overall, the moderators and presenters were prepared.	21	8				3.72
3. The presentation of information was clear and easy-to-understand.	16	13				3.55
4. There were adequate opportunities to ask questions.	19	10				3.66
5. The topics were timely – i.e., something I needed to know and/or wanted to know.	18	8	3			3.51

6. Emily Sheketoff's presentation was well-presented and helpful.	20	6	3			3.59
7. "Three Reichs, You're Out" was well-presented and helpful.	18	10	1		1	3.59
8. "Decaf? Filtering in the Library?" was well-presented and helpful.	17	8	3			3.38
9. Overall, I would rate this workshop:	High (4) 16	(3) 10	(2) 1	Low (1)	No Opinion (0)	3.56 (27 responses)

Written Comments:

Re: #5: Would prefer more objective approach. Re: #6 Very partisan (from a member of the Clinton administration) Political agenda not appropriate at a meeting like this.

Room was too cold. Hard to hear panelists and people were sitting.

Very timely, interesting speakers, sound could have been better.

Re: #6: She is very knowledgeable.

I applaud AACRL on a job well-done.

Very informative – very knowledgeable people – Have a good microphone system. Good workshop!

Absolutely fabulous!

Could use name tags

Re: #6 A little too much political agenda

Sometimes difficult to hear

Excellent – one of the best AACRL has done in past few years

Time limits on speakers – More audience participation – More chicken wraps – better signage for location of workshop – reserved parking for attendees – Thank you!

Name tags for attendants – arrangement of tables gave little room for mingling/networking (esp. for relative newcomers like me to AL Acad. Libraries) – excellent panelists included. Good keynote.